County council debates whether to force village homeowners to put up reflective 911 numbers

by MARTHA PERKINS
Times Staff

It's an argument of aesthetics versus caution as the county debates whether to force people in Minden and Haliburton to put standardized 911 numbers on their homes.

On one side there are county councillors such as Algonquin Highlands Reeve Eleanor Harrison and Highlands East Deputy-reeve Bill Howe. They want property owners to be able to put up decorative numbers as long as they fit certain size restrictions.

On the other side are Dysart et al Deputy-reeve Bill Davis and Minden Hills Deputy-reeve Jim McMahon. They think homeowners should nail the standardized white-on-blue reflective numbers next to their front door.

"We have to get it resolved," 911 co-ordinator Stephen Foster said at Wednesday's county council meeting. "We either are consistent and go with white and blue, which serves emergency personnel well, or consider the aesthetics issue."

Harrison said, "If you have a gorgeous home you're not going to stick those 911 signs on your home. I wouldn't do it."

Davis said the issue didn't affect her because she didn't live in a town.

Nick and Betty Jochim like the number sign that adorns their home on South Water Street. "I'm very proud of it," Betty said. Some county councillors say it should be replaced with a reflective blue and white 911 sign.

Decorative number signs may have to go

"I can't believe we're having this argument this far into a $3-4 million process," he said. "If it's a 911 sign it should be a standard colour."

The reflective signs would make it easier for emergency personnel to find a house and that should be the first consideration, he said.

"I agree with Bill," McMahon said. "They should be the same type of 911 sign."

Bill Howe said that if one house is number one and another is number five, emergency personnel should still be able to be able to find number three even if they all have different types of numbers.

He questioned what it will look like if the sign doesn't match the exterior colour of the house. Another councillor questioned what would happen if the county chose black number signs and a person owned a dark brown house: the numbers wouldn't be visible.

"Anything on a white background will show up," suggested Dysart et al Murray Fearrey.

Foster said, "The effectiveness of anything other than white and blue varies. Whether the house is brick or wood, the white and blue is imminently visible."

He took a tour of neighbouring towns and said only two require homeowners to use standardized 911 signs: Bracebridge and Cobocok.

He also pointed out that the county cannot put the numbers on the houses; homeowners will have to do that themselves because of liability issues.

Fearrey said that since rural property owners didn't have to pay for their own number signs village homeowners should not be expected to foot the entire bill.

Perhaps people could be given a credit for $7, which is the cost of the 911 number signs.

"Offer them the $7 and let them put up what they want," Harrison said.

The issue was not resolved on Wednesday.

Fisheries now part of road department's work on beaver dams

by MARTHA PERKINS
Times Staff

County roads department workers are learning a lot about fish biology and they have beavers to thank for it.

What's the maximum height a fish can jump? What speeds of current can they withstand? What depth of water do they need to spawn?

These are all factors that they must take into consideration when they want to get rid of a beaver dam that threatens county property.

"What are we doing when we pull these beaver dams out," asks department manager Doug Ray. "If we take a beaver dam out we can cause problems downstream."

In the past the department was more concerned about the impact their work would have on other properties since anyone who removes a dam is liable for damages.

Ray says it's a good thing that the department now thinks about the fisheries, but says the whole process now takes more time and costs more money.

"When we go to put in culverts now we might have to go 300 feet upstream to figure out how high and wide it must be [to reduce the impact on fisheries.]"

Under Department of Fisheries and Oceans regulations virtually all water bodies can be considered fisheries.

For instance, the department must calculate the flow of water that will be created if a dam is destroyed.

"They're pretty easy to deal with but it's getting to the point where we're working with them on almost everything," Ray says.

To help streamline the process, DFO is doing the preliminary work on a protocol for the county to follow.

Meanwhile, Ray received a strongly-worded letter of complaint from a County Road 2 property owner who threatened to sue the county. The county had done some repair work on his property for damages sustained after the county destroyed a beaver dam upstream.

The county did the work according to DFO policy and DFO is happy with it.

"His argument is with DFO then," Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey said at Wednesday's county council meeting.

The Mitchell Bridge at the junction of Horseshoe Lake Rd. and Bethel Church Rd. is undergoing repairs for the period of Sept. 20 to Oct. 29. Detours should not take more than a minute.

Mitchell Bridge to close for a maximum of six weeks

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times Staff

The Mitchell Bridge at the south end of Horseshoe Lake above the Minden Wild Water Preserve will be under construction for the next few weeks. Work on the bridge to repair the side walls and replace the railing with aluminum roll beams will make the bridge safer.

Kevin Hill, the Minden Hills Roads Superintendent, said the concrete railing was cracked and the rebar was showing through. The bridge's foundation was also in need of repairs and the decking will be resurfaced.

With the change in railing material, the actual road surface will be increased by about three feet to 14.8 feet. It will still be a one-lane bridge, but motorists will have a bit more width for a comfort zone.

The company that won the contract for the construction is Owen and King. Hill said it is one of the biggest bridge rehabilitation companies in the province. Owen and King replaced the Salerno Lake Bridge for the municipality a couple of years ago. "They always come in on budget," Hill said.

The total cost of the Mitchell Bridge project is $164,000, including consulting and engineering services.

Hill said emergency services and buses have been notified that the bridge will be closed and signs have been posted on roads leading to the bridge.

"It will only take about a minute longer using the detours," Hill said.

It is not a coincidence that the bridge work is taking place now. Hill said that the water level is lower at this time of year, which will allow workers access to the bridge's foundation without having to sand-bag the area.

"The water is down a couple of feet," Hill said. He added that the fall is also a good time because there are fewer tourists in the area and therefore less traffic.

The target date for completion is October 29, but Hill said that that is the maximum. "It may be finished sooner."

The construction is preventative maintenance. "A failure would be catastrophic," Hill said. This project is part of the recommendations that resulted from the bridge needs study Hill initiated in 2001 when the three municipalities merged into one. A 10-year plan has been formulated to prioritize and schedule repairs to all the municipality's bridges.

Hill hopes the repairs will cause a minimum of disruption. "We hate to step on people's toes," he said. "We would like to thank the public for their understanding."

Hill also has praise for Minden Hills council for planning ahead instead of waiting until the bridges needed major repairs. "They have demonstrated good fiscal planning," he said. "It's prudent routine maintenance and they have budgeted so there won't be a big increase in taxes."

Depending on the destination, motorists are advised to use Reynolds Road, Duck Lake Road or the Bethel Church Road until the bridge work is completed.

Water Watch urges people to join fight against Bill 170

by MARTHA PERKINS
Times Staff

A group that's lobbying to get the provincial government to change its new water regulation policies is hosting a public meeting in Cardiff to try to get Haliburton County to join the fight.

Water Watch invites people to attend the September 26 meeting to find out how the regulations will adversely affect private businesses.

Killaloe's Gunther Borck, who chairs the committee, says his group is against Bill 170/03 for several reasons. It will force private operators to install water treatment facilities, which he says will add an onerous financial burden and have an impact on the environment.

He also questions the wisdom of making people drink chlorinated water.

His group says private operators, such as camp grounds, used to have to follow Ministry of Health guidelines through the health unit. These guidelines provide sufficient protection for people drinking the water, he says.

"Why fix something that isn't broken?"

The meeting is on Sun., Sept. 26 at 2:30 p.m. at the Cardiff Legion.

HHSS has no plans yet for Kirkwood property

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times Staff

Haliburton Highlands Health Services has purchased the former home of Dick and Laura Kirkwood at the corner of Hunter and McPherson streets in Minden. The property is adjacent to the Minden Hospital/Hyland Crest site.

Looking to the future, HHSS took advantage of the opportunity to add to its holdings for expansion when it becomes necessary.

HHSS CEO Keith Sansford said there are no specific plans for the property at this time.

"It has potential for use for one of our programs," he said. "There are any number of possibilities for future development."

Part of the property may be used to expand the parking area at the Hyland Crest entrance.

HHSS bought the property at the public auction earlier this summer.

New Frost Centre committee hopes to meet October 14

Warden Bill Davis is pleased with a committee that has been formed to come up with new ideas for the Frost Centre.

Peterborough MPP Jeff Leal will serve as the committee's go-between with Gerry Phillips, the chair of the province's management board. Phillips is now responsible for the collection of abandoned buildings on Hwy. 35 south of Dorset.

The committee includes Davis, Algonquin Highlands Reeve Eleanor Harrison, District of Muskoka Councillor Margaret Casey, retired Gravenhurst clerk Ken Veitch, retired Fleming College president Brian Desbiens and Lindsay businessman Greg Walling.

The hope is the committee will be able to find an organization, or partnerships of organizations, to take over management of the educational facility, which was closed by the Ministry of Natural Resources in early July.

"I would like to see the Frost Centre stay public and the government continue to own it," Davis said.

Davis met with Finance Minister Greg Sorbara on Monday to discuss how much money will be available. The county had asked for $100,000.

"I'm optimistic," Davis told fellow county councillors on Wednesday. "We don't have a cheque but [Sorbara] will be looking at it asap. They've come to the table."

Davis hopes the committee's first meeting will be on October 14. The terms and reference and mandate will be established at that time. Davis would like the meeting to include a tour of the Frost Centre.

Minden Hills tests the waters to re-open contract

by IZABELA JAROSZYNSKI
Times Staff

Residents in Minden may soon have a new agency inspecting its water and wastewater plant operations.

The municipality's contract with the Ontario Clean Water Agency (OCWA) runs out at the end of the month and council may open it up to tender.

Since the contract states that the municipality must give written notice at least a year before termination of the current agreement, OCWA would continue to provide service for the next 12 months. During that period, the municipality could review the bids from other contract operators in the province. OCWA would have the chance to bid on the contract as well.

Should the municipality not give notice to OCWA, the contract would automatically be renewed for another three years.

Bob Romberg, the township's environment manager, called the service provided by OCWA "satisfactory."

He said that emergency circumstances were dealt with very well.

In his report to council, Romberg said that there are several reputable contract operators that would likely be interested in reviewing any tender the township provides.

"I wouldn't suggest for a minute that we could get [the service] cheaper," he said, but felt it would be good to re-examine it.

Deputy Reeve Jim McMahon said it would be healthy to tender.

But Councillor Clayton Cameron disagreed.

"They have done a good job and are well established in the area," Cameron said of OCWA. "They know our system."

Councillor Ron Buchanan also added that OCWA employs qualified local taxpayers to do some of the work. He asked that, should council decide to go to tender, there be a condition included about using local workers where possible.

Councillor Cheryl Murdoch, however, agreed with Romberg and moved that the recommendation to re-tender be forwarded to the council meeting at the end of September.

Councillor Peter Oyler agreed with the recommendation. "I am hearing some undercurrents of dissatisfaction," he said, adding that council has a responsibility to residents to provide the best possible service.

The recommendation to re-tender was accepted by the committee of the whole and will be voted on by council in their general meeting on September 30.

Algonquin Highlands may ship septic waste to Lindsay

by IZABELA JAROSZYNSKI
Times Staff

Waste from Algonquin Highlands may be shipped to the Sir Sandford Fleming College campus in Lindsay as part of a two-year pilot project.

Algonquin Highlands council has given the go-ahead for further investigation of the proposal which would serve as a short-term solution to its lack of a hauled sewage site.

Currently in the process of undergoing a Class Environmental Assessment to find a sustainable long-term solution, council is, however, hesitant to invest additional funds in a short-term fix.

At a previous public consultation meeting, Heather Watson – the SGS Lakefield project manager – outlined two possible options for consideration.

One option was to build some kind of waste management facility in the municipality or on lands owned by the municipality. This is a long-term solution, but still requires further investigation.

Since council had hoped to provide its residents with a solution by the upcoming winter, Watson also offered a short-term option.

Entitled "option A," Fleming College would accept the waste and collect data on it, such as volume.

Watson said that the added bonus of this approach is that the data could be used as part of the process to determine what type of facility the municipality needs.

Although it sounds like an ideal solution on paper, council has to consider the costs and logistics, Reeve Eleanor Harrison said.

Unless the cost of hauling sewage to Lindsay is less than what residents are currently paying, no one will want to use the service, Harrison said, thus skewing the results of the data and rendering the short-term solution useless.

"I am not sure if it is money well spent," she added.

The money Harrison is referring to is the $1,500 that SGS says it needs to properly investigate whether or not the short-term solution is even feasible.

The investigation will include an environmental and socio-economical impact assessment of building a temporary transfer station in the municipality to accommodate the project.

After a brief debate, council decided to follow the consultant's advice and the public's wishes to investigate the option.

The municipality has already spent $20,000 on fees for the EA process and will now need to invest a further $16,150.

The greatest chunk of the additional money will go towards identifying "Alternative Design Concepts for the preferred hauled sewage management system and assess the environmental and socio-economic impact of each concept on the preferred site."

That carries a price tag of $7,500.

Other costly work is the next public meeting. The consultants will present the public with preferred design concepts, which will cost $2500, plus an additional $1500 for the next questionnaire.

The event was not included in the initial price because it was recently added to the work plan.

Although the cost of gathering public input is sizeable, the municipality says it is worth it to ensure that the public has a say in the process and is kept well informed.

Oshkosh show worth the investment, airport manager says

by IZABELA JAROSZYNSKI
Times Staff

Stanhope Airport made a big splash at the recent EAA AirVenture aviation show in Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

As the only Canadian airport represented at the international exhibition, the airport's booth was well visited.

John Packer, airport manager, is very happy with the reception they received.

"It was very successful," he said, adding that his team gave out more than 1,000 pamphlets about the airport and Haliburton County.

The township of Algonquin Highlands was the first to get involved in the program, but was soon joined by the county, the Chamber of Commerce and the Haliburton County Development Corporation.

An application for funding was also made to the Ontario Ministry of Tourism under the Tourism Revitalization Program.

In addition to the brochures promoting the county, 123 people signed up to receive the Chamber's tourism package.

Packer hopes that the show will mark the beginning of a "relationship between the aviation world and tourism" in the area.

Already, he says, he has seen dividends. Since the August event, three people have flown into the airport as a result of the advertising. One pilot even stopped in on his way to Alaska.

More people flying into the local airport means more money being spent in businesses across the county.

"I think it will take a little while before we see the full results," he said.

Packer would like the airport to participate in the event for at least a few years.

The week-long event is held annually at the Wittman Regional airport and it attracts nearly 700,000 people.

"It becomes the busiest airport in the world for that week," Packer said of the Oshkosh area airfield.

As a marketing ploy for Stanhope airport, the delegation gave out wooden nickels containing a special airport design. For the 180 pilots who received them, they are worth $10 of free gas.

Packer says his team spent well within their budget and is optimistic that they could go on an even tighter budget should they get the chance next year.

In addition to attracting tourism for the county, Packer is also optimistic that the airport might play a role in getting more doctors into the area. After handing out five or six brochures for doctors to "practise in our county," a doctor came to the airport for more information.

"He showed up saying that he might want to buy a cottage in the area," Packer said, adding that the doctor advised him he would be able to practise medicine for at least one day while in the county. But the man wanted to know if a hangar would be available for his plane.

"We would probably be able to make his wish come true," Packer said.

The airport is now gearing up for Aviation Week at the end of September. The week-long celebrations will include another round of Young Eagles, where children receive free flights from local pilots, as well as Senior Eagles. The event also includes a three-day conference for airport managers at the Wigamog and a fall colour fly-in.

Ontario's new free vaccines will protect kids

The government of Ontario is helping kids stay safe from chicken pox and meningococcal meningitis, and helping families by adding these free vaccinations to the routine immunization schedule. Here's how it works:

- Vaccines for chicken pox and meningococcal meningitis are now available for one-year-old children in Ontario born on or after September 1, 2003.
- Starting in January 2005, 5-year-olds who haven't had chicken pox can also get the vaccine, as well as high-risk people of any age.
- Also starting in January 2005, 12-year-olds, 15- to 19-year-olds and high-risk people of any age will be eligible for free meningococcal meningitis vaccinations.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Thanks Minden

The people of Minden have come through once again. For a community the size of Minden, support for the annual Terry Fox Run is exceptional. This year marked the 11th annual Terry Fox Run for Minden - it was the 24th annual Canada and World-wide event.

Minden's participation is higher than much bigger communities. For example, our total raised in the 2004 run rivaled that of Peterborough, a city well over 10 times the size of Minden.

Members of the Minden Terry Fox Run Committee are often asked what is the secret to Minden's phenomenal support for the event. There is no magic formula. It is the dedication of the people who participate that contributes to the success.

We doubt there is a higher incidence of cancer among the population of Minden and the surrounding area than other parts of the province. We do know that there are many people who are very dedicated to this cause. They are people who are willing to approach their family and friends to pledge their support. They walk, run, ride bikes, in-line skate, push strollers or whatever they feel comfortable doing to participate. And the donors are very generous. In spite of the fact that every time we turn around, somebody is asking for donations for one worthy cause or another, we always seem to find the resources to help out with the Terry Fox Run.

If you asked the members of the Minden Terry Fox Run Committee what their secret weapon is, chances are the answer would be Linda Brandon, co-chair of the event for the past several years. A great organizer, Linda has been involved locally from the start. She has developed contacts in the community and knows the right buttons to push. Her enthusiasm for this cause helps keep the rest of the committee focused and motivated.

Committee member Mike Jackson has been providing space at Mr. D's Donuts and Family Restaurant for meetings since he bought the business, as well as providing many hours of labour each year helping to set up, man the barbecue and dismantle everything when the run is over.

Special mention should also be given to Bob Hurtle, who leads the team that tallies up the donations and pledges and provides a running total at the site.

Each member of the committee plays an important role and the contributions of these volunteers has been acknowledged by the Terry Fox Foundation.

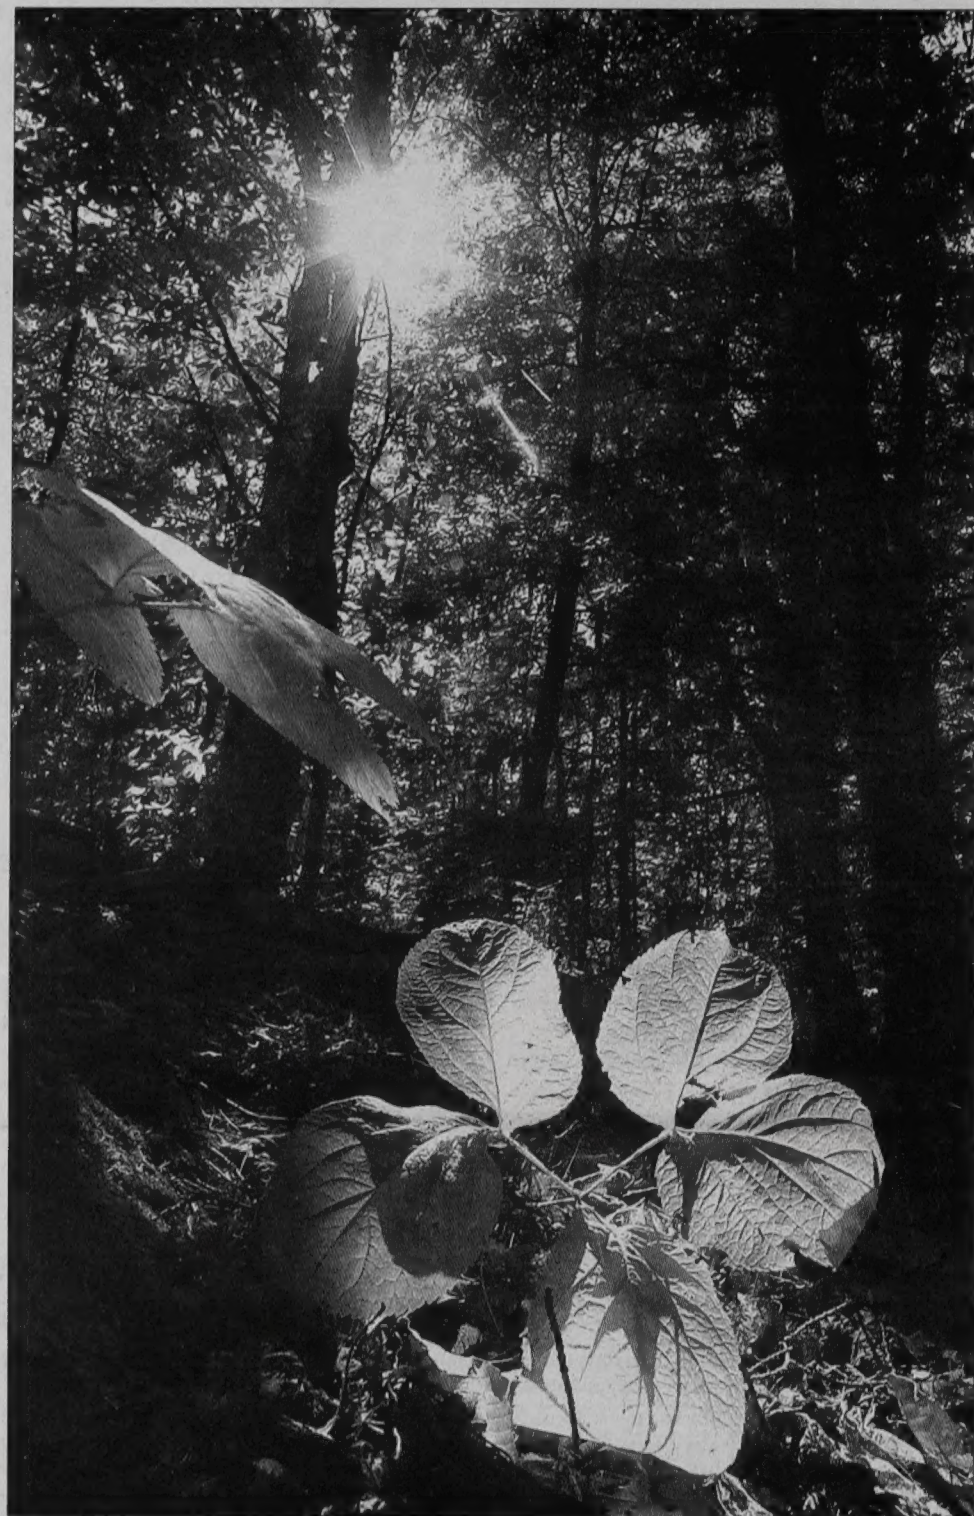

The 2004 wrap-up meeting will be held next week and the committee will take a break until next spring or early summer when preparations will begin for the 2005 Terry Fox Run. It will be the 25th annual nation-wide and the 12th annual for the Minden site.

The Times is proud to play a role in the local Terry Fox Run by promoting the Minden and other local events. We share Terry Fox's vision of a world free of cancer. Strides have already been made in controlling certain types of the disease, as well as prevention.

We look forward to a time when every form of the disease is curable. Hopefully, in the not too distant future, money from the Terry Fox Foundation will be channeled into prevention, as opposed to working on finding a cure. In the meantime, we hope the people of the Minden area will continue to raise the bar; to set an example by supporting the dream Terry Fox started 25 years ago.

It should be noted that the Terry Fox Run is not a competition. There is no trophy for the participant who finishes first or raises the most money in pledges. The reward is in the knowledge that we are doing something to alleviate the suffering of people who are afflicted with cancer and contributing to research which will some day result in a cure.

We should all hold onto the belief that Terry's goal is achievable. It is. And with our support it can happen in the foreseeable future. jg

Asphalt plant benign

To the Editor:

This past July, I wrote a letter about the proposed Irondale asphalt plant. As I mentioned, I have very close ties to this area, returning to my birthplace as often as I can.

While visiting my relations this September, I read a letter in The Minden Times (September 17, 2004) written by Dick Clark and titled "Asphalt plant will be environmental disaster."

First of all, Mr. Clark infers that local people around Irondale are opposed to the proposed asphalt plant. He should have stated, "a few local people." Of the many local residents that I have talked to, they all support the proposed asphalt plant. A local petition, of which I have seen, confirms the significant support.

I have become more informed on the proposed asphalt plant and the functioning of an asphalt plants. Impacts on biodiversity would be nil. The proposed location of the asphalt plant would be centrally located within an existing quarry - what better place for an asphalt plant.

Surely, Environment Haliburton and the Sierra Club of Ontario would apply some common sense in listening to such deceptive and distorted information being provided by the extremists. If asphalt plants are such an environmental disaster, as these people would lead others to believe, then the government should shut down all asphalt plants in Canada. Taking this to the extreme, if the activists are generally Looking for a new running shoe? I'm talking about one that can withstand the rigours of combat and harsh physical training? Then maybe the PT-103 is the shoe for you.

The PT-103 is the first running shoe endorsed by the British Army. It's set to compete with Nike, Reebok, and Adidas brands of shoes. The press release says they're sleek, tough, and field-tested. More than that, they've got military backing and they're using a full Colonel as a spokesman.

I can't say I'm keen on the idea.

First off, in my mind a nation's military is meant solely for the defence of its country. Once they deviate from that role, I worry. I mean do you really want generals to fret over marketing, financial statements, and fashion design? Do you really want your army to have vested commercial interests? If you ask me, there's something a little too intimidating about that.

I'm not exaggerating when I say that if I were an employee of Reebok, Nike or Adidas, I'd be nervous. It's one thing to compete against a well-established corporation but quite another to compete against one with superior firepower, state-of-the-art weapons, and recent combat experience.

What if the British Army gets serious about fashion? Can we expect pre-emptive air strikes on competitors' billboards? Will commando units raid big shoe stores placing explosives on rival display racks? Will they create another arm of the service to deal with shoe warfare or will this be delegated to the foot soldiers?

The British Army is doing this because it feels it's high time to supplement their funding by making money from its good name. But if they're successful will other armies follow? Will we see the US military pushing pumps or loafers? Will western armies start sending soldiers into combat wearing designer footwear? Will they set up high-end shoe stores in every occupied town?

Hopefully, there's a provision in the Geneva Convention to prevent this. If not, the terrorists have won.

Historically, this sort of thing always leads to escalation. Before you know it, the big shoemakers will raise their own armies and form a well-heeled coalition. Next thing you know they'll stand toe-to-toe with the makers of the PT-103. There will be collateral damage and innocent victims of fashion.

I can just see it. "Today, forward elements of the Imelda Marcos High-heeled Casual Work Attire Brigade clashed with Shi'ite Muslim extremists wearing open-toed, strapless sandals on the runway just outside of Basra. Embedded CNN fashion analysts said it was one of the worst encounters of the fall season with the rebels deliberately wearing white after Labour Day... Oh, the inhumanity.... Back to you Rolfie."

From there on in, it could get very ugly.

I'm envisioning our own proud Canadian military foisting a line of silver Mukluks with fun fur trim. Naturally, our funding would only allow us to produce three pair, one of which would be grounded due to faulty laces. We'd immediately send out the remaining two to foreign lands for peacekeeping duties followed by a whirlwind sales promotion tour. These would be effective in the former role because who in their right minds would mess with a man wearing Mukluks in the desert? And they'd also be impractical enough to qualify as the next big fashion craze. Suddenly, our military would be able to afford that makeover it's always wanted.

Far-fetched? Maybe. But, mark my words; this terrifying trend just might give a whole new meaning to the term boot camp.

The coming of autumn

Evidently a lost patrol is trapped behind enemy lines in the gravel pit just to the north and east of us. There are bursts of small-arms fire and then silence.

But the silence is only relative because as the echoes of the hunters' shooting fades away, The Brown Dog Jiggs and I find ourselves in a maelstrom of sound and movement.

There are chirps and clucks, grumbles and screeches all around us. Wings flutter and brush leaves, twigs snap. There is a muffled din all around us on the woods road back to the sugar shack.

Then, suddenly, as if one of those clucks was a command, a flock of blackbirds rolls up like thunder through the treetops.

They come out of the trees in waves and just when you think they are done, another wave moves out and The Brown Dog Jiggs, who gave up on birds when he was a puppy, is so excited he actually barks at them.

The blackbirds and their racket move far enough away that now we can hear a gaggle of geese gabbling over on Nine-Acre Pond.

Gabbling geese and thundering flocks of blackbirds. Autumn, my favourite season, fills my head with sounds inside and out. Inside my head I hear a Haliburton version of a poem all of us of a certain age once learned by heart.

The Haliburton version, which may start the writer of the original, Wilfred Campbell, rotating in his final resting place:

*Along the line of smoky hills,
The crimson forest stands,
And all day long the chain
saws snarl,
Throughout the autumn
lands.*

*Now by great marshes
wrapped in mist,
Or near some pond that's not,*

*Throughout the long, still autumn
day*

Wild birds are being shot.

There are violence and death in the sounds of saws and shotguns and yet, perversely, I find them comforting. They are the sounds of men providing for themselves, filling their woodsheds and their freezers.

All up and down my woods road, the wildflowers are having their last hurrah, the last of the asters and goldenrod and touch-me-nots exiting stage left to avoid being upstaged by the crimson forest to come.

Autumn snuck up on this week in August's clothing and now comes the time of waiting.

We wait for the first frost and the first hard freeze, the first snow and the snow that comes to stay, the first skim of ice that rims the ponds' edges and the day the ponds freeze over.

We wait for the first evening we need to set a fire to take the chill off and the day we set a fire that will keep burning until April.

We wait for the moose hunt and the deer hunt and for the bears to go to sleep so we can fill our bird feeders again.

While we wait, on a perfect morning in this most perfect week of 2004, The Brown Dog Jiggs sets a quartet of turkeys erupting into the trees and goes running off in all directions, barking at them.

There is time that day for getting the last of the winter's wood under cover and still time after that for a walk back to Nine-Acre Pond just to sit and wait for something to happen.

What happens almost at once is that a great honking flock of geese, likely the same gaggle we heard in the morning, crash-lands on the pond, exploding water all around it. There are at least 30 geese and now they all talk at once about their landing.

The sound of late arrivals, the alarm slaps of a beaver's tail and the echoes that bounce oddly across the pond add to the hubbub until the sound of my voice calling Jiggs gags the gaggle and on this perfect day we have a still life before us, a painting of early autumn.

The Brown Dog Jiggs, indifferent to the spectacle, goes back to his search for chipmunks, sniffing all up and down the ground on either side of a rotting log while a ruffed grouse strolls atop the log.

Suddenly the partridge flushes and Jiggs, startled by the commotion, looks at where the bird used to be. He considers for a moment, sniffs the air, looks at me, barks once, considers again, and starts sniffing at the log.

The geese have no comment.

Plants not a threat against gravel pits and quarries we would be back to sand roads and then horse and buggy. They criticize but offer no alternatives except "not in my backyard."

There are numerous asphalt plants throughout the country, most of which are located in close proximity to residential areas. A number of plants are also located within remote and "so called" pristine areas. In many cases, the asphalt plants were initially located in semi remote areas and now residential developments surround the plants.

In the August 17th Haliburton County Echo, Joanne Nicks (anti-asphalt person) indicated that she sent me a letter in response to my article, mentioned above. To date, I have never received a letter from her and I see no reason why she should write me as I am only stating my opinion.

Gremlin altered words of letter on pits, quarries

To the Editor:

Thank you for publishing my letter (Minden Times September 17) criticizing the provincial government for allowing contractors to open wayside pits and quarries and to place portable asphalt plants almost anywhere, with no regard for zoning or other by-laws or the views of local residents.

Unfortunately a gremlin crept into the last sentence. Originally this read, "He [the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing] should be asked how it is that corporate expectation can gain such precedence over normal democratic procedures."

Junior Boys soccer

Red Hawks lose Fenelon Falls nail-biter 2-0

by BRENDAN FARRELL
Special to The Times

For the HHSS junior boys' soccer team, winning the home opener was a matter of a few bounces, says coach Kevin Hilderley.

"Both teams battled hard and both teams had their chances, and with a few bounces going our way we could have won the game," Hilderley said of Tuesday's home game against the Fenelon Falls Falcons.

Despite strong chances on goal the team fell short, losing to the Falcons 2 - nil.

The first half of the game was controlled by the Red Hawks but the homeside was unable to find the back of the net against a strong Falcons goalkeeper who kept things tied at the end of the first half 0 - 0.

In the second the tables turned as the Falcons went on the offensive, taking the game to the Red Hawks. They opened the scoring at the beginning of the half. Off a tricky shot that handcuffed Jesse Tallman, the new HHSS goalkeeper, the Falcons went ahead 1 - nil.

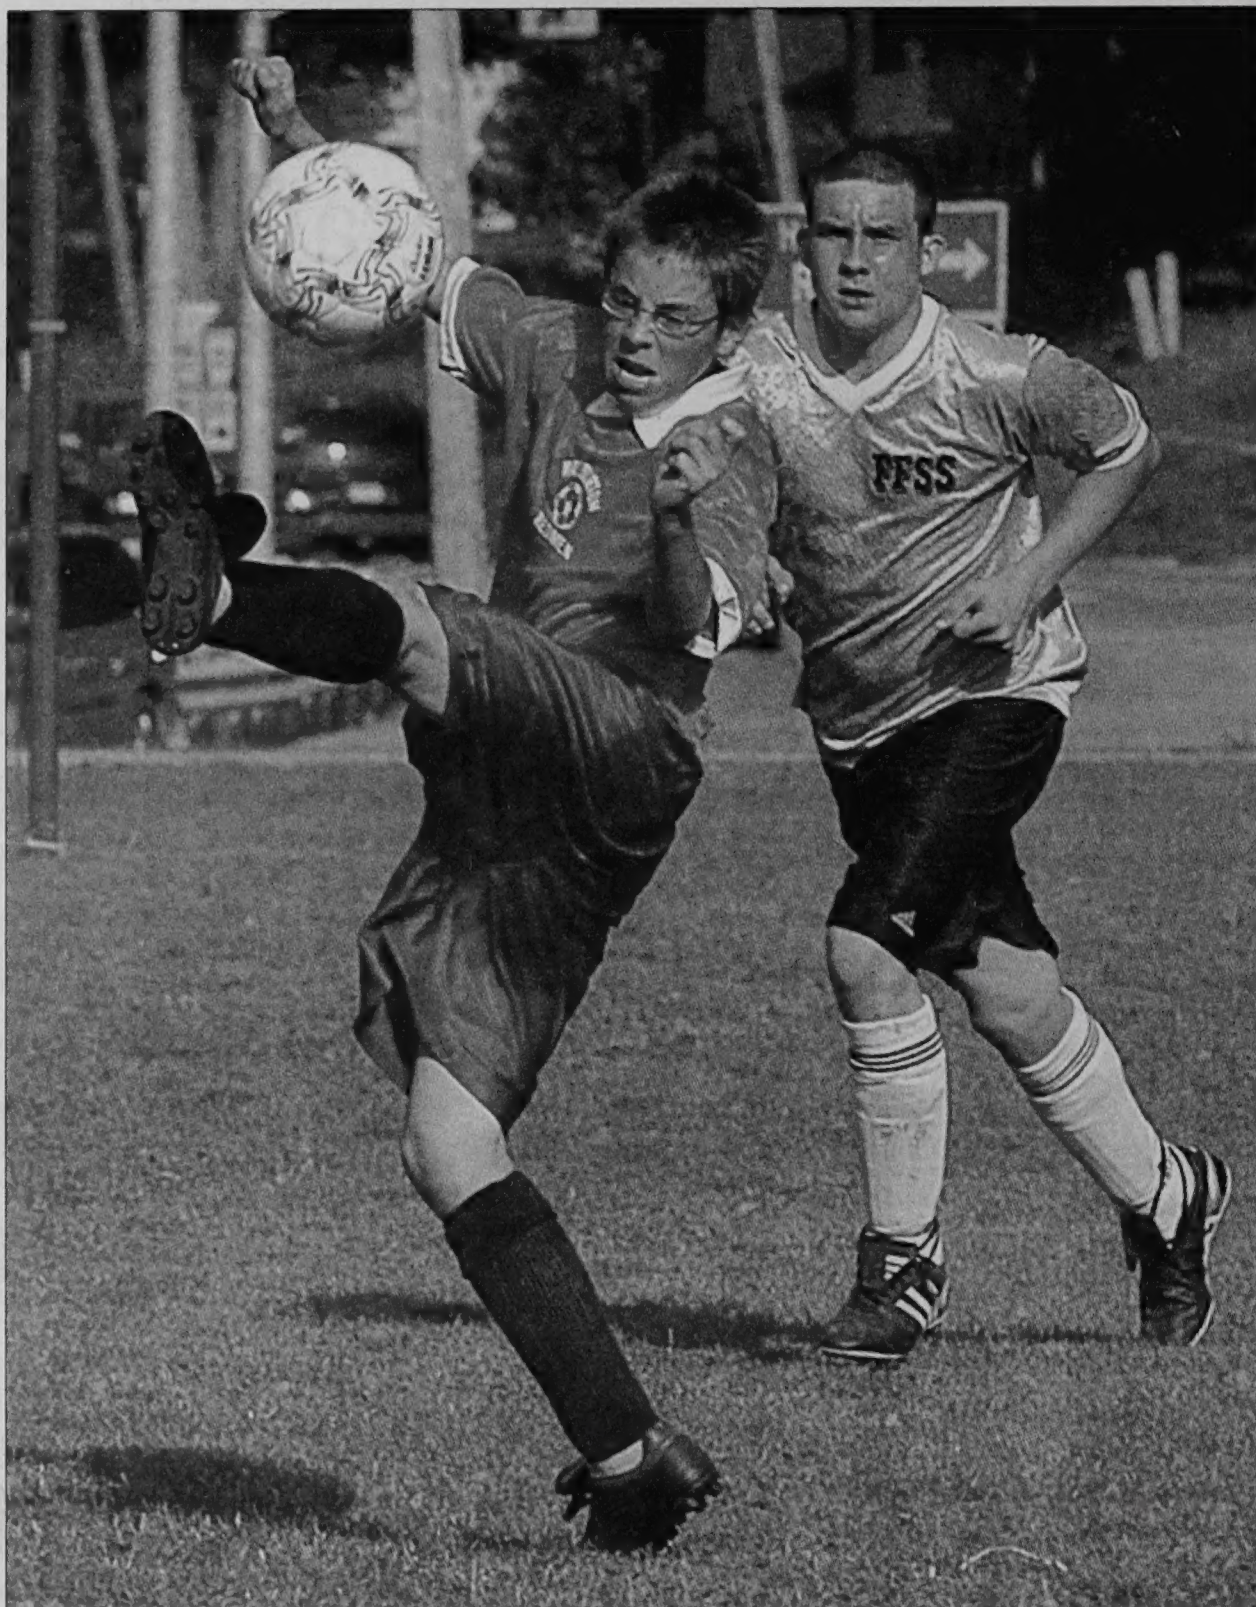

With plenty of time left in the half the Red Hawks came alive. They attacked and pressured the Falcons.

Despite the Red Hawks' ability to create numerous scoring chances, the Falcons put the game out of reach late in the second half. A blistering shot that went off the bottom of the crossbar gave the Falcons the insurance marker and the 2-0 victory.

First-year junior Dan Goodwin had a good first game at defense, turning away countless offensive opportunities by the Falcons.

Another notable defender was Andrew Flowers, particularly on the throw-ins. Solidifying the centre, back, and front of the field for the Red Hawks was Max Ambridge, playing the sweeper position.

The next Red Hawks home game is against I.E. Weldon at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

MooseWatch program protects natural resources

The Ontario Conservation Officers Association wants all anglers, hunters, and other outdoor enthusiasts, to report any game or fish violations they see or know are occurring in Ontario.

Most Ontarians and other visitors to this Province obey our hunting and fishing rules and regulations. OCOA says these laws help to protect Ontario's natural resources for future generations, but some see the wildlife and fish as an unlimited resource; theirs for the taking.

When these unscrupulous few harvest these resources out of season, through illegal means, or in excessive numbers, they not only put the resources in jeopardy, they are stealing from all those who enjoy the outdoors and obey the rules.

So the next time you witness someone shoot a moose out of season, take too many fish, or commit some other game and fish violation, call "Moose Watch" at 1 866-346-6673 or your local MNR office at 286-1521 or your local Conservation Officers.

'Boarders, cyclists and rollerbladers can win in fun photo contest

A new photo contest offers area youth the chance to win a prize just by doing cool moves on their bike, rollerblades, scooter or skateboard.

Sponsored by the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit and Health for Life, the contest encourages youth to be active and wear the proper safety gear.

"We want to see photos of kids being active and demonstrating tricks on their bikes, rollerblades, scooters and skateboards," says Anne-Marie Cyr, a public health nurse with the health Unit. "But most importantly, we want to see them wearing the safety gear and wearing it properly."

The contest runs from September 18 to October 18 and is open to Haliburton County youth eight to 18 years of age. To enter participants must send a photo of themselves doing a trick on non-motorized wheels (bikes, scooters, rollerblades, skateboards) and include a description of their trick and why they like to be physically active. Photos will be judged on the quality of the picture and the originality of the trick - not the danger factor.

There are three age categories in the contest (8 to 11 years, 12 to 14 years and 15 to 18 years) and the winner of each category will win a $100 gift certificate to a local sports store and have the opportunity to have their photo posted on the Get Moving website (www.getmovin.ca). All entrants will receive a gift certificate to Subway restaurant.

"I know we have a lot of talented athletes in this area and this contest is a chance for them to show off their moves," says Cyr.

Contest rules and consent forms can be downloaded from www.getmovin.ca and photos can be e-mailed to contest@hkpr.on.ca or dropped off at the Health Unit office at One York Lane, Top Floor in Haliburton.

Details and consent forms can also be obtained by calling the Health Unit at (705) 457-1391.

Tell the YWCA of an act of kindness during Week Without Violence Canada's largest anti-violence initiative, the YWCA Week Without Violence, begins October 17 and continues through October 23. This international education and awareness campaign supports alternatives to hurtful or violent activities in our schools, workplaces, organizations, daily activities, and homes.

This year in the Haliburton County area, the YWCA is adopting an "Acts of Kindness Campaign". On October 1 The Times will publish a form for you to cut and fill out. You may make additional copies of the form as well. Just fill out the form naming an "Act of Kindness" given or received by a community member in Haliburton County this month.

The potential acts of kindness are limitless, from shopping for a friend, helping a neighbour prepare for winter months, taking the household cook out for dinner, helping a struggling friend with schoolwork, letting your staff know they are appreciated, picking up trash left on our hiking trails, learning from the stories of seniors in the area, donating to the food bank, helping with house cleaning if it is not your usual job, sharing the peacefulness of our fall scenery while taking friends or family for a stroll, volunteering for a community event and more.

From October 1 to October 11 you may drop off the form in the designated box at the IGA in Minden or Haliburton. There will also be a drop box at the YWCA in Minden.

The Haliburton Community Acts of Kindness will be selected and read on Canoe FM during the YWCA Week Without Violence and may be published in local print media and in the YWCA publications such as the YWCA Changes.

The international YWCA Week Without Violence was created to promote alternatives to patterns of violence identified by Statistics Canada, which may relate to such things as sexism, racism, homophobia, economic control, age and isolation.

Archie Stouffer Elementary School came out in full force for Terry Fox. There were 550 students who participated in the school's first Terry Fox Run on Friday afternoon, Sept. 17. Most ran the trails that lie just behind the school's playground area while a few other classes took their own routes. The school raised more than $600. All money will go towards funding for cancer research. There has been $340 million raised in Terry Fox's name worldwide. In 143 days Fox ran 5,373 km, but was forced to stop his run in Thunder Bay on Sept. 1 when cancer appeared in his lungs. He passed away at the age of 22 on June 28, 1981.

Top: Participating children run up the first hill to the trail, leaving the school's playground area.

Left: Young ASES students took their own walk, separate from the rest of the school that went along the trail.

Bottom left: Finishing the run. ASES students were so enthusiastic on the run that many did it twice.

Bottom right: ASES students Rachel Nesbitt, Kim Kasepчук, and Heather LaCraw were all smiles at the end of the run.

Minden Terry Fox Run raises $10,000-plus

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times Staff

The 2004 Minden Terry Fox Run, held Sunday with the start/finish at the upper level of the Minden Community Centre, raised more than $10,000. That includes more than $600 raised by the Archie Stouffer Elementary School students and staff on Friday, September 17.

The Minden event featured some new faces and a few who have been supporters for the past 11 years. One of those familiar faces was Laurie Sisson, who participated for the 11th time this year. Like most of the participants, she started because she had lost family members and friends to the disease. Now, she is a cancer survivor herself. The local run has several cancer survivors and their families who participate.

A few of the participants continue to bring in large sums of money in pledges. Bradley Trumbull usually tops the list in pledges, and this year was no different, with nearly $1,400 to his credit.

The Minden Terry Fox Run also boasts a very long list of volunteers who help organize the event and make sure it operates smoothly.

Safety of the participants is always a concern and, with the assistance of the Ontario Provincial Police, the Minden Area Police Support Association and the Minden Amateur Radio Club, the event went off without a hitch. A crew from the Minden Ambulance base was on standby to assist if the need arose.

The number of participants was down from last year and the total raised was about $2,000 lower than the 10th annual Minden Terry Fox Run last year.

The Minden area has raised about $100,000 for cancer research over the past 11 years.

"We're so blessed to have the awesome participants, sponsors and volunteers we've had for the past 11 years," says Linda Brandon, Co-Chair of the Minden

Terry Fox Run Committee. "Every year is the same as the first year in terms of excitement."

Next year will mark the 25th annual Terry Fox Run and Minden's 12th year. "I hope the success continues for next year's 25th anniversary," Brandon said.

The Minden Terry Fox Run Committee includes co-chairs Linda Brandon and Jerry Grozelle, Jeanne Anthon, Bob Hurrell, Steve Taylor, Mike Jackson, Diane Peacock and Barb Millington.

Kinmount plans Thanksgiving studio tour

Shades of Judy Garland. Even with no ruby red slippers in sight Dorothy's words to her little dog Toto resounded through the old farmhouse last week. Indeed "there's no place like home". After two weeks absence and with Bruce sporting a new hip joint, this warm September view from the screened porch rivals any landscape Oz has to offer.

At the Kinmount Legion's "Big Bucks Bid Euchre" on September 15th first place went to Peter Bryant with Ron Foy second and Ida Young third.

Between 60 and 100 participants are expected at the Kinmount Station area Sunday afternoon, October 3, as they complete the City of Kawartha Lakes 'United Way Trail Fest' event. The walk, which starts out from the Ken Reid Conservation Area, continues through the Fenelon Falls and Burnt River areas, ending at Kinmount. Members of the Shaun Chapman Memorial Skateboard Park Committee will participate, with their pledges divided equally between the United Way and the Skateboard Park project. A one-half hour karate demonstration will take place between 4:30 - 5 p.m. For information or to pledge call 488-2919.

Planning your Thanksgiving weekend? Be sure to put the Kinmount Harvest Homecoming Studio Tour on your must do list for Saturday, October 9th or Sunday, October 10th. Open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Studios are located within an easy driving distance and a warm welcome is guaranteed at each location. For more information call [705] 488-2938 or pick up your map at the Kinmount Artisans Marketplace. On Saturday a variety of special events will take place throughout town, sponsored by the Kinmount & Area Business Association. Members of the Kinmount & Area Artisans Guild will be demonstrating in the Community Centre above the Marketplace.

Pentneys donate to Hospice

Haliburton County's Community Hospice program has gratefully acknowledged a $1,000 donation from Dave and John Pentney, owners of Minden Home Hardware.

Dave Pentney says the Hospice was an unknown organization to him until it touched the lives of his family. Holding back his emotion, Pentney said he really appreciates the wonderful work that Hospice volunteers do and the help his family has received.

A Hospice brochure in Dave's home brought the issue of the need for financial support to the Pentneys' attention and they say they are pleased to help support the program.

Eric & Mary McCallum mark 65th anniversary

A special celebration was held at Hyland Crest on Thursday, September 9. The occasion was the 65th wedding anniversary of Eric and Mary McCallum. "It's been a great 65 years," said Eric. "We've had our ups and downs but we always made up again. She's still as beautiful as she was 65 years ago. One of our rules for a happy marriage was that we never went to bed angry."

Weddings up in the air

The Dorset Scenic Lookout Tower has become a popular spot for weddings. And we can see why - it offers a breathtaking view and a wonderful place to celebrate. There have been two or three weddings at the Peek-A-Boo lookout area and even one right at the top of the tower. We hear the celebrant was quite surprised that he was to perform the ceremony "way up there".

For the first time the Dorset Volunteer Fire Department participated in a county-wide firefighters' competition hosted by the Stanhope Fire Department on Sunday, September 12. A great time was had by all and Dorset did very well by all accounts for first-timers. Congratulations also to the Dorset women's team for winning the water ball competition.

The Dorset Blooms Plant Exchange on September 8 was great. Everyone went home happy with his or her new plants, gardening books or magazines that they exchanged or bought. A nice bit of money was raised for the community planting.

Don't miss the annual Dorset Fall Colours Arts and Crafts Show at the Dorset Recreation Centre on Saturday, September 25 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Since 1995, Canada Post has supported the Canadian Children's Wish Foundation. Since 1995, Post Offices in Ontario have raised over $250,000.

Last year, the Dorset Post Office raised more than $3,000. This year there will be a walk to the Dorset Tower on Sunday, October 3 starting at the Dorset School at 11 a.m. There will be a fund raising BBQ at the tower. If you would like to participate, pledge forms are available at the Post Office.

For more details, see John at the Dorset Post Office or give him a call at 766-9977.

The Dorset Volunteer Fire Department, in conjunction with Fire Prevention week October 3 to 9, will be conducting residential smoke alarm inspections on the evening of October 5 between 7 and 9 p.m. The theme for this year's Fire Prevention week is A Fire Safe Community.

The members of the DVFD will go door to door throughout the hamlet and surrounding area to inspect smoke alarms. It is the law in Ontario to have at least one working smoke alarm in your dwelling and it is further recommended that you have one working smoke alarm on each level of your home. During the inspection, fire department members will activate, or ask you to activate, your smoke alarm to ensure that it is in working order.

The fire department will have a limited supply of batteries and smoke alarms available at a reasonable cost on this night. The Dorset Volunteer Fire Department and its members appreciate your cooperation in making our community a Fire Safe Community.
